

Tiger Tail Black and Red - Balmoral

Balmoral's Black and Red Tiger Tail are protective warning covers that interlock together on an overhead line for visual warning, mechanical protection and electrical insulation. The Tiger Tail is used extensively by Utilities and Electrical Contractors as temporary electrical insulation, mechanical protection and visual warning of power lines and conductors. Made from HDPE plastic with a mechanical interlock fastening system, they are robust units that have decades of engineering and development to ensure the highest quality and safety standards.
